Evrenseki-Ilica

In 547 B.C. our region remained under the rule of Persians coming over Iran. Persians dominated Side and Aspendos. They even had naval warfare in front of Aspendos against Ancient Greek King Kimon in the year of 564 B.C. On that date we understand that the ships entered deep inside the land from the sea. Even the fossils extracted from underground in our days authenticate this opinion we have. West of Köprü Creek (EVRİMEDON) was known as Pamfilya and the region including the east of Manavgat Creek (Melas-Karasu) was known as East Pamfilya.

Starting from the years of 1500-1660 until the years of 1800s, Yuruks used to live on the highland during summer months and they used to live in this warm and well-watered region close to the coastline of Mediterranean during winter months. Overfalling waters of Ilica River feeds not only humans but also all living beings. This life source river gives life to living beings from the fountain constructed after starting settled life with one water slot and one double water slot and by giving warm water and cool water during summer by pulsing. Ilica has started to stand in the forefront as one of the vital points of commerce also in the region where it takes place.

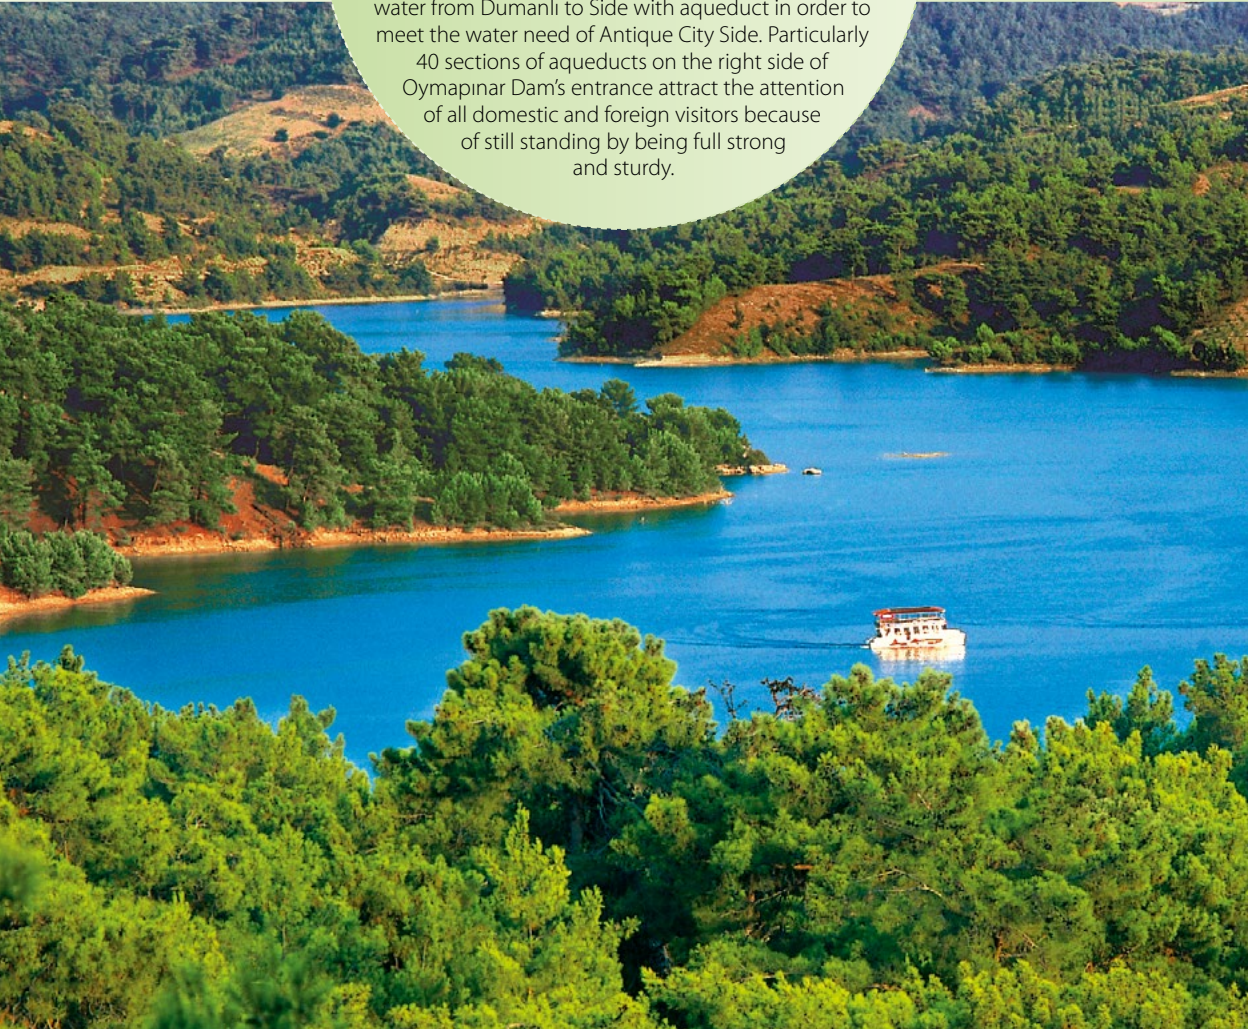

Evrenseki Culture House

By doing compilation of our ancestors, Karakoyunlu and Karakeçili Yuruks (Turkish Nomads in Anatolia) from their material and moral cultures done while they lived and acquired Manavgat as their country by being settled Anatolia-Teke region after coming from 24 Oghuz Tribes, we are now presenting their belongings used during those periods in our Culture House to the visiting of Turkish visitors as well as to the visitors coming from all around the world after doing required maintenances and repairs.

Old name of the town was Homa and it is located 17 kilometers on the north of Manavgat and takes place on the road going to Fatmalar Mountain which is close to Dumanlı - main source of Manavgat Creek coming from Taurus Mountains. In our region, the first date when human race settled in our region is 1820 B.C. In this region, after Lydian King Attalius, during 2nd and 3rd Centuries A.D., Romans and then Seljukians and Ottomans reigned. Homa still stands as a touristic town where the ruins of aqueducts (Roman Aqueducts) still exist in 6 places used to carry water from Dumanlı to Side with aqueduct in order to meet the water need of Antique City Side. Particularly 40 sections of aqueducts on the right side of Oymapınar Dam's entrance attract the attention of all domestic and foreign visitors because of still standing by being full strong and sturdy.

Agriculture in the Region

Natural structure of the borough is partially suitable for agriculture and agriculture has developed in these regions. Remaining areas are separated as forest and moors and there are also villages where stockbreeding has developed. In the villages of the borough, alongside of stock breeding and small cattle breeding, crop, sesame, watermelon cultivations are done and oil cultivation is gradually gaining importance particularly during the recent years. Labor of forest products and seasonal agriculture labor are the main ways of earning and thyme, daphne, locust and fruit cultivation such as cherry and walnut have started.

During the recent years, cotton production is decreasing while increases are observed in citric, open area and under-cover vegetable cultivation. Industry has not developed in the borough. However, there are many factories based on agriculture.
